HOWARD MAY VOTE ON THE ORANGE GROVE BRIDGE QUESTION.

A Delegation Presents a Bill to the County Commissioners Authorizing a Bonded Debt of $15,000, Subject to the Action of the People at the Polls. Mr. John Glenn, of Baltimore, was spokesman of a delegation which Tuesday laid before the county commissioners of Howard county a bill to be submitted to the legislature authorizing Howard and Baltimore counties each to issue bonds to the amount of $15,000 to build the much-talked-of iron bridge over the Patapsco at Orange Grove and in the line of the cortemplated Wilkens avenue extension. Among those composing the delegation were Messrs. Grosvenor Hanson, Richard C. Norris, Herman D. Wehland, P. H. Macgill, Murray Hanson, Henry Brosenne and others. If the people desire a vote on the question the commissioners are not disposed to antagonize their wishes, and the bill will very likely go to the legislature, its conditions making provision for a vote of the people. AN APPROACHING WEDDING. The Fair Captor of a Former Editor of "The Times."

Cards are out announcing the wedding of Mr. J. Y. Brattan, a former editor o THE TIMES, and now press agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company to Miss Lizzie L. Hunt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas II. Hunt, of Ellicott City. The marriage ceremony will be solemnized by Rev. R. Andrewes Poole, at St. Peter's Church, in this city, on Thursday afternoon next, at 12.30 the bride and groom will leave for a Southern trip which will extend as far as St. Augustine, Florida. Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Brattan will reside on North Calvert street, Baltimore.

Mr. Brattan is well known in Howard county. He came to Ellicott City in 1886, a total stranger, and when he returned, after a residence of eighteen months in this city, to Baltimore, to reenter the more active and alluring pursuits of his profession of journalism, he had gained a host of friends who still hold him in fond recollection for his affable disposition and courteous bearing. After leaving Ellicott City he attained an editorial position on the Baltimore Sun, which he resigned, to accept the position of press agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company, in which he has discharged his duties in a manner highly creditable to himself and thoroughly satisfactory to the company.

The bride is the citest of Mr. Hunt's charming daughters. Since she left Patapsco Institute, four years ago, and made her first entrance in social circles, she has become a general favorite. She is one of the most popular young ladies of Ellicott City, and her many attractive circle of friends, who, while wishing her God-speed, deeply regret that her cheerful presence among them is soon to be missed.

Miss Gussie Leamann Surprised. The many friends of Miss Gussie Leamann tendered her a surprise party at her home on Main street, Ellicott City, Wednesday night. Dancing and other amusements were indulged in until midnight when refreshments were served Some of those present were: Misses Lizzie Rodey, Gussie and Amanda Wosch, Alma Wichter, Ada Bierly, Mamie Sullivan, Blossie Holtman, Maude Bretherton, Sophia and Mary Engle, Mollie Krah, Maggie Beutefisch, and Messrs. GRIEF HASTENED HIS DEATH Mr. Alexander Daley Did Not Survive His morning, of Mr. Alexander Daley, who had for the past few years made his home o'clock. Immediately after the wedding in Ellicott City with his son, Dr. Alex. G. Daley, who died suddenly on Thursday of last week in Chattanooga, Tenn. Mr. Daley was an octogenarian. He was devoted to his son, and grief at the latter's death is supposed to have contributed to his demise. He was a native of Ireland, but had come to America as a child. The greater part of his life had been spent in Orange county, Va., where he owned property at the time of his death. He always considered Virginia his home. For a number of years he had been a widower, his wife having been a Miss Brent, a connection of the well known Maryland family of that name. Like his son, Mr. Daley had many warm friends in Ellicott City. Two sons, of four originally, now survive, Frank Daley, with the Adams Express Company at Alexandria, Va., and Watson Daley a civil engineer, of Texas.

It may be said of the rural press of Maryland generally that every county has its good papers, and that their beneficial influence in promoting public and private enterprises cannot be overestimated. Wherever there is one or more prosperous, well conducted newspapers is also to be found an enterprising and prosperous community. No State in the Union has more or better county papers in proportion to territory and population than Maryland. The influence of this press in developing business, in attracting settlers and in making known the great resources of the State is fully recognized. Very much good work has been done on these lines by the press, but the field is illimitable and worthy of the brains and capital employed in such a useful branch of human industry. Below is given brief sketches of the individuals composing the Democratic Editors' Association, which includes in its ranks some of the foremost journalists of the State.'

THE B'HOYS FROM B'HALTIMORE TOOK IT WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The Gorman and Gibson Banquet-The Legislative Grist Mill Like the Mill of the Gods-Some of the Matters Claiming Public Attention-The Meeting of the b'hoys took the place packing the limited space of the Maryland Hotel dining room, and leaving the guests and indeed the hosts to skirmish around on the outside. But the b'hoys were tull of Democracy, enthusiasm and, very soon of liquids and solids, and felt even more elevated than the places of many on the tables would warrant, and the way they whooped it up for Gorman and Gibson would have made a Camanche tribe green with envy. Every thing was good-humored although the informality was considerably greater than had been anticipated and many were disappointed that because of the jam speeches from the distinguished Maryland Senators were out of the

OF INTEREST TO GERMANS.

Baltimore Lawyer on Early German Settlers in Maryland.

Mr. Louis P. Hennighausen, of the Baltimore bar, recently lectured before the German Historical Society in Baltimore on the German settlers of Mary. land. Among many other things, of interest to the German population of this State, he said: "The settlement of Germans in Western Maryland was undoubtedly an important factor in the developement and history of our State. They brought above all things sturdy arms, an immense working capacity and frugal, simple habits. They turned the wilderness of Frederick county in 1730 into a blooming garden, so that in 1790 Freder-Agricultural College, and with the joint ick was the largest wheat-producing committee on agriculture with regard to | county in the United States. The names of its early ministers are unknown, but Rev. David Chandler preached there in and before the year 1743. Rev. Lars Nieberg was for some years pastor at Monocacy. Germans settled about Frederick as early as 1734. One year later one hundred families arrived from Germany and among them was Thomas Schley, of Elberteld, their school teacher, who is said to have erected the first house in Frederick. Fredericktown was laid out in 1745 and the county was organized in 1748. Thomas Schley was the ancestor of a distinguished line of descendants. one of whom is Captain Schley, commander of the United States cruiser Baltimore.

"Conogocheague was the first settlement in Washington county, and was composed entirely of Germans. Among the earliest settlers in this neighborhood were Jonathan Hager, the founder of Hagerstown; the Pohs (Poes,) Prather, Seller, Kerchners, Seiberts and Prices. "The French and Indian war broke out in all its fury, and the Indians massacred whomsoever fell in their hands. Washington wrote: 'The whole settlement of Conogocheague is fled, and there remain now only two families from thence to Fredericktown.' It was in those times that the famous Indian fighters, the Prathers and Pohs, (Poes) in Maryland and the Wetzels in Virginia. all German settlers, first became known. Col. Thomas Prather lived two miles from Conogocheague and was the commander of the Frederick militia.

"The great burden after this war to the German settlers in Maryland was that in addition to the expense of maintaining their own churches and schools, they were compelled to contribute to the support of the Church of England established in the colonies. This was one of the causes which led them to espouse unanimously the cause of Independence in the Revolution. The war for Independence was very pop-ular among the Germans of Maryland, and it is said that there was not one Tory among them. Among the officers were Col. George Struecker, Captains Michael Rudolph, Charles Baltzell, Michael Boyen Hartman. Many of the tlers of Maryland were our Western pioneers, and their families are now found in every Western State as far as the Pacific coast." Ladies. When you come in town shopping stop into Neal's Dining and Lunch Rooms,
